Introduction:

In recent years there is a general criticism by the educationalist, clinical psychologist and psychiatrists that the Indian educational system is over burdening the young students. A number of reports have appeared in Media, mainly the newspapers and magazines which bring to light the alarming rise in the learning and behavioral problems of students due to excessive academic pressurization inflicted by rigid curriculum and the demanding teachers and parents. This report are based on a number of case studies of students from different parts of India with stress related problems ranging from psychosomatic disorders to instances of running away from home. Competition pressure in academic from parents, teachers, society to a certain extent serves as a motivating factor facilitating better performance of children in schools. Excessive competition pressure on the students for achievement in school can be destructive to the 'Creativity' and 'Self esteem' of the adolescents. Competition pressurization might adversely affect their 'Academic interest' and 'academic achievement' in school quite contrary to Parental expectation.
